MIE
Workshops*Tuesday
13th June

An artist's notebook is a place to think, to draw, to write, to collect, to play. It is a place of concentrated work and absent minded doodling. Join artist Duffy Mooney Sheppard as she shares how strange characters arrive in to her notebooks and come to life through drawing and writing. You will build a notebook of your own and begin to populate it with characters and ideas for your own unique stories.

IADT
Workshops

Drawing for Animation /
Photography - Cyanotype
Printing / Graphic Design / 3D
and Production Design

Thursday
15th June

10am – 4pm

IADT
Workshops*Thursday
15th June

Participants in this workshop will gain an insight into drawing for animation. This two-hour interactive workshop will give students an introduction to gesture drawing and will create work that could be added to their portfolio. Participants will also be given an overview of the course content in IADT animation.

---

Photography - Cyanotype
Printing

Tutor: Sarah Jordan

Thursday
15th June

This workshop will introduce participants to one of the many photographic printing methods discovered in the 19th century. Students will be set the task of making contact prints (similar to photograms) whereby collected objects of their choosing are placed on treated paper and exposed to UV rays creating an image you can take home. The workshop will involve a dark room so participants should be comfortable in a dark space. We recommend that you wear old clothes for the photography workshop, due to the materials being used.

Thursday

Learn the basic tools to design a visual identity or logo for yourself / your favourite band / your local sports club etc. You'll experiment with typography and image to produce a logo that can then be applied to some merchandise.

---

3D and Production Design

Tutor: Aidan Fox

Thursday
15th June

This workshop will introduce participants to the diverse industry of model making and set design through a variety of creative practices. It will also showcase the broad range of specialised skills that you will learn in any of IADT's creative courses.

Museum of Literature Ireland (MoLI)
Hear about MoLI - the Museum of Literature Ireland and the Irish writers, past and present, that fill the museum. Then, take part in creative writing and storytelling exercises. This is a relaxed easy going workshop - full of humour and inspiration. No experience necessary - come as you are!

Gamelan Music - the Percussion
Orchestra of Indonesia

Tutor: Peter Moran

Friday
16th June

UCD Gamelan Orchestra
Gamelan is the ancient classical music of Indonesia. It is an orchestra of tuned percussion instruments including hanging gongs and other metallophones, with a few softer instruments and voices as well. In this workshop you will learn to play a traditional piece of music from the island of Java using a variety of percussion instruments, and you will learn about the history and culture of Javanese gamelan music.

UCD
Workshops*Friday
16th June

UCD Creative Futures Academy

This workshop is designed to build a creative ensemble quickly with any group. You will be led through a series of criteria to cultivate physical creativity. You will learn how to express ideas and narrative through the body in space before developing text. A series of structured improvisations and collective compositions will be explored leading to the creation of original theatrical pieces. This fun collaborative workshop is catered to all abilities and levels.

Friday
16th June

UCD School of English, Drama and Film

This workshop introduces students to the main narrative and stylistic features of classical Hollywood cinema. Examples both historical and contemporary will be used to show how this form of screen storytelling emerged and went on to become the dominant form of narrative not just in cinema but also television and many digital media formats. Students will be able to draw upon their own viewing practices and better understand the underlying structure and visual techniques of their favourite narrative media. The workshop ends with students developing their own film or television pitch according to the conventions to which they have been introduced.

10am – 4pm

TCD
Workshops*Tuesday
20th June

Trinity's Music Department is Ireland's oldest venue for the study of music. This workshop will explore a number of approaches to studying music, and give participants an insight into musicalology, music technology and composition.

The Voice

Tutor: Sarah Lordan

Thursday
15th June

The Lir Academy is the National Academy of Dramatic Art based at Trinity College Dublin and has trained many successful actors including Paul Mescal. This workshop will centre around voice training, including breathing and projection in a way that supports those interested in dramatic arts but also the everyday benefits of being confident with our voices.

Wednesday
15th June

Why Film? The audio-visual form is, without a doubt, the most culturally important medium of our age. From Youtube videos and Instagram stories, to the latest Avengers blockbuster, all these things come from the meeting of moving image and sound. So why write about film? We'll be discussing how best to write about these films, to build your cinematic literacy by examining blockbusters and black-and-white French films from the 1950s with equal importance. Be prepared to explore cinema the best way we can in our "Writing on Film" seminar; by talking and writing about it. We might be giving you a tour of the film world, but you will have to bring your own creative ideas!

Creative writing

Tutor: Aidan Fox

Thursday
15th June

Can you put pen to paper and translate what your imagination invents into the written word? There is no one way to be a writer but this workshop will begin the process of identifying imaginative, technical and practical waypoints

Sculpture Workshop / Drawing
Workshop / Visual Culture
Workshop / Drama Workshop

10am – 4pm

TU Dublin
Workshops*Wednesday
21st June

Using textiles, fabric and other soft materials and techniques such as cutting, collage, addition and subtraction, participants will make a soft sculpture incorporating shapes and text. Participants will then have the opportunity to learn timber and woodworking techniques such as cutting, drilling and other methods to make a structure to hang, or hold the fabric sculpture as a banner, flag or wall hanging.

Wednesday

The Creative Industries and Visual Culture (CIViC) programme at TU Dublin invites you to join us for a 2-hour workshop. Working in groups, you will write, design and perform your own MANIFESTO, a socially-informed intervention in the everyday. From autographed urinals and spoons worn in the lapel to giant puppets and guerrilla gardening, the “disobedient object” has enabled the linking of art and politics. As long ago as Marcel Duchamp’s ‘Ready Mades’, artists, designers and activists have been using objects, images and manifesti to upset the status quo, challenge injustice and campaign for social change.

After a brief introduction, you will work in groups to decide on a joint manifesto. This may be ‘about’ anything but must encourage change in attitudes or behaviour. You will then be asked to produce the manifesto, using a collage of words and images, in a poster format (materials will be provided). We will print a limited edition of each poster for you to take away. Finally, in order to share with all participants and bystanders, each group will perform a live “happening” of your manifesto.

TU Dublin
21st June

This workshop will introduce participants to the notion of drawing as both an observational tool and a way of engaging with space. Participants will have the opportunity to experiment with large scale drawing techniques as a way of engaging with and documenting surroundings. This workshop will also engage with expanded drawing, using unexpected and unconventional materials to create drawings in space.

Wednesday
21st June

Drama is very social, fun and is the only art form that you just need people to create. Using games, playing and improvising, participants will be invited to create characters and mini-plays on subjects that are important to them. Participants will then look at the other artistic craft elements one can add to drama to make it theatre, such as sound, costume, set and audience placement. The workshop will also involve a visit to our blackbox theatre and the set of the current production The Asylum Workshop to see a working theatre in action.

Workshop

Making an eye from scratch /
Drawing and Composition

Thursday
22nd June

10am – 4pm

RCSI
Workshops*Thursday
22nd June

Inspired by the world of special effects and informed by science - the RCSI SIMULATION (SIM) Team crafts and creates immersive learning experiences. This workshop will explore the tools, techniques, and technologies we use to simulate real-world illnesses, scenarios and surgeries. Learn how the RCSI SIM build eyes from scratch, create convincing costumes and make fake bodies feel real using everything from makeup to meat. You will build an eye from scratch with Rebecca Kirrane, RCSI's Senior Clinical Skills & Simulation Technician and the RCSI SIM TEAM. Once you have built your eye, you will learn about a medical procedure used to take pressure off the eye in a simulated environment (popping the eye back into its socket, which can happen due to a blow to the head in sport etc.).

SIM RCSISIM BRAIN BOXThursday
22nd June

Composition is the framework of all visual art. The manner in which artists compose their ideas in pictures is their way of telling the story. In this Workshop students will have the opportunity to work and create their own compositional drawings using the fundamental techniques of light and shade, shape and design and how to position the main ideas. Using charcoal on pads students will be recreating the scene in order to evoke the drama and narrative from their imaginations and tell their story. Students will be shown how to put down the scene and to use what's available in the scene to recreate the artistic drama. This workshop will take place in the College Hall where RCSI's Women on Walls portraits hang. Women on Walls recognises the pioneering achievements of eight extraordinary women and enhances the visibility of historical female leaders in healthcare. RCSI's Head Porter Mr Frank Donegan will tell the story of each woman who has contributed to improving human health. Frank will sit for the life drawing workshop facilitated by artist Mr William Nathans, who painted Women on Walls Dean Mary Frances Crowley. William is a classically trained painter, who works mainly in oil and dry media, basing his work on studying the subtle range of tones and hues found under atmospheric north light. His work attempts to document the people of his time questioning how the present and the past have shaped them.

Speaker / A Series of dots: An introduction to screen-printing

Friday
23rd June

10am – 4pm

NCAD
Workshops*Friday
23rd June

Through a series of exercises and a Presentation on Contemporary Portraiture you will be introduced to the medium of Acrylic Painting. The outcome will be a Self – Portrait which you will create from a selfie taken on your phone. You will be supported during each of the exercises to realise the image. This introductory session will give you the tools and knowledge to continue your learning on the subject.

Friday

“Fashion is one of the greatest vehicles to merge music, art, architecture, design, typography – it’s a wide enough canvas, or a big enough sandbox, to touch all the different things that I’m into.” – Virgil Abloh

This is a 2D to 3D immersive workshop that will introduce participants to the creative process that a Fashion Designer undertakes to come up with innovative and unique concepts for clothing for all genders. Participants will discover insights as to how a Fashion Designer actually thinks and works and also considers new ways of working towards a more sustainable future.

You will begin by a gathering visual research, rapid observational drawing exercise from everyday life architecture and objects as potential. You will then extract from this to make paper constructions / sculptures on mannequins that can further be developed into soft material. Throughout the process you will explore different shapes, structures, forms and construction methods along with some material manipulation techniques that could further be explored / developed for the torso.

Participants will identify how by following this process they can produce new and exciting creative outcomes for a thoroughly immersive collection of clothing.

Introduction to Product
Design - Build a Customised
Portable Speaker

Tutor: Tara Whelan

NCAD Workshops

Friday
23rd June

Participants will be invited to build a customised portable speaker, which is theirs to keep. We'll see the laser cutters and 3D printers used to make the parts in action and discuss how they're used in the design and prototyping of new products."

A Series of dots:
An introduction to screen-printing

Tutor: Neil Dunne

Friday
23rd June

Silkscreen printing has long been recognised within the advertising and creative industry as a means to create and reproduce photographic imagery. Although the process is historically one of the old processes of reproduction, originating in China in the early AD200's, the process came into popular visual discourse in the early 1920's. It was later in the century, in the 1960's, the famed Warhol and Rauschenberg created their iconic reproductions and brought the process into the public sphere. This workshop will introduce the students to the process, with a short presentation on the artist and the process. There will be a brief introduction to the materials, language and outcomes of the technique and then the students will have the opportunity to pull their own print.
